The Handwriting on the Wall. If we are not deceived by our advices in PENNSYLVANIA, the Presidential contest is su stantially decided. We write in the convicti based on expressed and telegraphic returns fro two-thirds of the State, that WILLIAM F. JOH ston has been chosen Governor and NER MIDDE SWARTH Canal Commissioner, with a decided m jority of the Members of Congress and Legis ture, carrying, in the general sweep, the vast ; rosinge of the State and her Public Improvement If this be so, by however small an aggregate r jority, we think few intelligent politicians doubt the election of the Taylor and Fillm Electors by quadruple the present majority. Mr. Van Buren is personally strong among the Ger Washington .. 150 man Democracy of this State, as is the principle Cambria on which he stands before the public as a candi- Lehigh. date, and thousands who have seen no reason to desert the party nominee for Governor in favor of Philad's City .. 3991 a Whig, will vote for Van Buren in November .- Fayette .. twice as many if the bottom has fallen out of the whole business as would have done in case of Longstreth's election. There will be votes for Johnson's present gain over Polk's whole ma Van Buren from both sides, but we think twice as Twenty-three Counties (mostly small) and part, many from Longstreth's poll as from Johnston's, especially if the former be defeated.

For this magnificent and astounding victory much credit is duty to Gov. Johnston himself. His able and useful career as a legislator, his general liberality of views and courtesy toward adversaries, his early, ardent, and effective devotion to the Free Soil principle, and the talent and energy wherewith he has canvassed the State, have com bined to render him a formidable candidate, in spite of ferocious attacks upon him as the Shinplaster, Relief Note, Specie-payment-Suspension Biddle Bank, turncoat candidate. He has been tried as by fire, and he has come unscathed from the furnace which has devoured his defaming ad-But this victory is mainly due, not to Gov. John ston, nor yet to Gen. Taylor, nor to any man whatever. More than all else, it is the doing of the artificers and hardy workers of the State, who feel a deep interest in the Protection of their Labor. The ternado has not been felt every where alike; its main strength is evinced in th regions underluid with Coal and Iron. SCHUYLKILL, the focus of Anthracite, is the focus, also, of the rev olution. While the sanguine calculations bed or Arkansas and Iowa, Missouri, and even Georgia Buena Vista, and 'Old Whitey,' have proved del sive, the calm intelligence and keen sagacity of the colliers of Pottsville, the iron-workers of Luzerne. the weavers of Manayunk and Norristown, have settled the great question. The States, to gain which Gen. Taylor was nominated, have yet evinced any very grateful sense of the condescension; while Pennsylvania and Ohio. the former hardly consulted, and the latter daringly defied, in making a candidate, have done the business. We gain no U Senator where we fished so venturously for them, we gain two here, because the People's principles and interests impel them to act with the Wflig party. There are in these results lessons for politicians which, rightly read, will teach them to know this people better and respect them more deeply. We shall recur to the subject hereafter, and discuss it with entire freedom. Meantime since it is absolutely certain that the Whigs have a large majority of the Members of Congress, morally certain that they have both branches of have carried the Governor and Canal Commission er-certain, at the worst, that these can only be defeated by a very meagre majority, which cannot stop the swelling tide of popular sentiment which is now rushing on to a change of men and measures in the National Councils, let us raise one chastisement of the Kane-letter swindlers of '44. She has marked them now; she will fully settle is considered doubtful. with them on the first Tuesday of November.

The Presidency-How is Cass to be Defeated

HARTFORD, Ct. Sept. 9, 1848. DEAR SIR : You tell us that the Free Soil party may yet be responsible for the election of Gen. Cass Supposing, however, that, by the present movement tion should be thrown into the House, wou not Gen. Taylor still be chosen ! Will you please to give us. Sir, as distinctly as may be, an estimate of the by Whige in New-England, advocates of Free Soil Bures. They wish to see the Free Soil party made as formidable as it can be with safety. (praying ever for the defeat of Ges. Cass.) and will oppose it only as a forlorn hope to crush the great Michigander. Unless you can prove that, in order to this, it is necessary to vote for Gen. Taylor, you will find them on the election day standing idly at the polls or attending to their daily business, like the disappointed Quakers of North Carolina. They have watched your course with some sympathy up to this time, but are not quite ready to fall back with you into the old party traces.

Hence Garrier, Eq.

Reply .- The case is simply thus : If no candidate shall have a majority of the whole number of Electoral Votes cast, the election goes to the House 2,000 majority - Ed. Trib. where a majority of the Delegation from each State casts one vote. Now, of the thirty States compo sing the Union, fifteen (a full half) have Cass Delegations, twelve have Whig Delegations, and three equally divided, so that no choice could be made with each Member present and voting. But let any one Whig Member from New Hampshire Rhode Island or Georgia be sick, or absent for any cause, or induced on any ballot to withhold his vote, and Lewis Cass's election is inevitable. On the other hand, the absence of no one, two or three Loco-Focos could enable the Whigs to elect Gen Taylor: while Mr. Van Buren has not a single Delegation in the House. There is therefore not one chance in a thousand of defeating Gen. Case

- But suppose he should not be elected-that the House should ballot and ballot through the appointed term, effecting no election. The same vote of the Electors that defeats a choice of President by the People defeats any choice of Vice lor's number of votes, Gen. Butler Gen. Cass's, and Mr. Adams Mr. Van Buren's The Senate therefore proceed to elect a Vice-President, and Gen. Butler is inevitably chosen on the first ballot by a large majority. In default of any election of President, Gen. Butler becomes President ex-officio. There is no hyperbole, no poetry, therein the averment that every Whig vote for Van Buren is half a vote for Cass and Butler, tending strongly to secure their election. [Ed. Trib.

The Great Fair Again.

evening the Fair was crowded with the fair and any quantity of admirers. Continual throngs come and go, each day, hour after hour and the interest shown is still unabated. This is one of. or, in fact, the most successful of all these Exhibitions -the receipts so far have exceeded any former year by a very large amount,-and not that alone, but the articles themselves which attract so much attention, are without doubt arranged more tastily and conveniently point bereafter.

Having noticed a few of the more substantial and bulky fabrics on exhibition, it may be well to de vote a little space to those of luxury or convenience -No house can be well kept while vermin of any kind are its constant immates | consequently this morning's No. 536 .- Lyan's Magnetic Powder, for the de

These preparations, it is stated, have been successfully tested by the medical gentlemen con nected with our Hospital; and are by them recomnended, as well as by others, as a really efficient and effective invention fully accomplishing all the designed. Another great desideratum is, that while the preparations are family embadied to all varinints, ther domestic animals they are entirely harmless. Mr. L. deserves a premium for his invention- it is one of the most interesting things exhibited at the Fal His office is at 420 Broadway.

The Revolving Chair of Mr. J. W. Mason 77 Pearl at is on exhibition on the Stage. It is very mplete and handsomely manufactured, and is made to suit all tastes. You can have it with or without can ottoms-if you do not have a case, you do have a eatly cushioned seat, and thereon you may sit as a table without moving at all-a vast convenience ompanied by no creaking nor bother. in fact, the smoothness of the operation generally of these affairs is the great desideratum attained. We would ask for pleasure and convenience.

Gold Pens.-The display of Gold Pens this year is very fine. Ragley's manufactures are again on hand with their silver medal awards of former years glitter ing in the gas-light, and other manufacturers of this vastly convenient contrivance send in full and fair repesentations of what can be done in that line -Mr. Beand A. BROOKLYN AFFAIRS. SUPPOSED MURDER .- On Tuesday afternoon of siderable excitement was created among the individuals dwelling in the miserable shantee situated in a swamp at the extreme end of Hickest by a rumor that a man named Edward Hayes had murdered his wife by stamp ble invention recently patented by Morse & Brothers | ing on her with his feet in the most infuriated manne When they entered the dwelling, they found the woman lying dead upon the ground with a mark o the patent right for our own State. The invention consists in distributing the air through the fine fuel by means of perforated conces, and is so contrived that it burns sawdust, tan, turners chips or other fine fuel for running steam-engines. A number of steam saw mills in Western New-York have already adopted the Distributor, and are thus consuming all their refuse, in lieu of either wood or slabs. It merits an examination.

The policeman who arrested the husband testified that he he acted very unruly and refused to go with him, and in the melec which occurred, the lamp was extinguished, and he had by use every precaution not to tread upon the body lying on the floor. A boy named Barney Rogers swore that he saw the woman lying on the floor, in the early part of the evening, in the same position in which she was found, while Hayes was lying in the bed. The case had not concluded until late, when the jury retired
